Editors' Note

The first time we celebrated Tet, we felt totally lost. We had only lived in Vietnam for a couple of months at that point and while we were enthusiastic about participating in Tet, we felt like there was so much to learn. Not to forget, we were only in the early days of Where in Vietnam too. We were far from being pros. Discovering the highly circulated Santa Fe Relocation's Tet Survival Guide was our savior, we were so impressed with its thoroughness and always shared the valuable tool.

Flash forward to the fall of 23' where we got to meet Santa Fe Relocation's team and learn more about their passion for Vietnam. They have been sharing this trusted resource for 14 years and we at Where In Vietnam are honoured to be the first people they've partnered with on this irreplaceable guide.

We hope you enjoy this as much as we've enjoyed working together on this.

All About Tết

The Basics

Tết is short for Tết Nguyên Đán which means "Festival of the First Day of the Year"

This is the busiest time of year in Vietnam and one of the most important celebrations in Vietnamese culture, you'll see an uptick in family gatherings, trips and general festivities across the country

The date of celebration vary year to year as it is based on the lunar calendar. This year is from Friday Feb 9 to Wed Feb 14

New Years Eve
on Feb 9
New Year
on Feb 10

Vietnamese traditionally celebrate Tết from the 15th day of the 12th lunar month to the 15th day of the 1st lunar month. Businesses often slow down two weeks before and two weeks after TET.

The Year of the Dragon

The Year of the Dragon Năm Rồng in Vietnamese holds a place of honor as one of the 12 zodiac animals.

Dragons aren't just in stories in Vietnam; they're a big part of life all year! Think dragon dances, processions, and even dragon boat races. Now, picture how awesome it is when it's actually the Year of the Dragon!

The story goes like this: Lạc Long Quân, a dragon lord, and Âu Cơ, a fairy, are at the heart of a beloved tale.

It's not just a cool story, but also a key part of Vietnam's heritage, celebrating the dragon's kindness and its deep connection to Vietnamese culture.

In Vietnamese culture, dragons mean power, luck, and prosperity. If you're born in the Year of the Dragon, you're thought to inherit these qualities. No wonder it's a zodiac sign everyone wants!

Zodiac Element: The year of the Wood Dragon!

The last time it was the Year of the Wood Dragon was 1964!

The Year of the Wood Dragon infuses the dynamic dragon energy with the grounding influence of wood. Wood Dragons, known for their strength, versatility, and resilience, bring a balanced blend of assertiveness and compassion and symbolize growth and renewal.

Individuals born in the Year of the Wood Dragon are believed to possess an innate ability to navigate challenges with grace, foster collaboration, and cultivate sustainable change.

FUN FACT

Birth Rates go up during Dragon years as it's seen as an auspicious sign!

Let's Talk Tết!

Safety Note

As with any major holiday that emphasizes gifts, money and family, this can put extra financial stress on individuals. There's always an uptick in petty thefts around this time.

- DO be mindful of your belongings when going out
- DO double-check your doors and windows before leaving your home. Make sure that everything is locked.
- DO put your wallet, mobile phone, car keys in a safe place.
- DO be mindful when in crowds or on busy streets

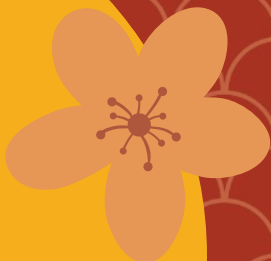

This is also a time where you will see more traffic police in major areas. Drive safely.

Tết Preparation

The celebration of Tết is all about cleaning out old energies and ushering in new energies for the New Year. Cleaning, purchasing new clothes, and sharing good fortune are common themes in getting ready for the celebration. These common traditions and customs come alive in every aspect of life!

At Home

Thorough Cleaning

Dọn Nhà

In the weeks before Tết, everyone in Vietnam gets busy cleaning their homes from top to bottom. It's not just about dusting and sweeping – it's a symbolic way to kick out last year's bad luck and open the doors wide for good fortune in the new year. Plus, it's the perfect time for a little home makeover!

Altar Decoration

Trang Trí Bàn Thờ

Families decorate altars with fresh flowers, fruits, and meaningful items. It's all about honoring ancestors and inviting their blessings for the new year. It's a beautiful tradition that brings everyone together.

Through Food

- In Vietnamese, celebrating Tết is called "ăn Tết," which literally means "eat Tết." This just goes to show how central food is to the festivities
- On New Year's Eve, it's all about family and feasting in Vietnam. The Tết Niên meal is a big deal – it marks the end of the old year. The table is filled with traditional dishes, each with its own special meaning. It's a time for sharing laughs and stories with loved ones, making it a truly heartwarming occasion.

Traditional Eats

Bánh Chưng and Bánh Tét

Tightly packed sticky rice with meat or bean fillings wrapped in Lá Dong (Bánh Chưng in the north) or banana leaves (Bánh Tét in the south). Considered an indispensable dish of Tet, Bánh Chưng or Bánh Tét is placed on the family altars to honor the ancestors and pray for their support in the new year.

Hạt Dưa

| roasted watermelon seeds

Mứt

These dried candied fruits are rarely eaten at any outside of Tết

Củ Kiệu

| pickled small leeks

Thịt Kho Tàu

Meat Stewed in Coconut Juice, a traditional dish of pork belly and medium boiled eggs stewed overnight in a broth-like sauce, often eaten with pickled bean sprouts and chives and white rice.

Dưa Hành

| pickled onion and cabbage

Mâm Ngũ Quả

Families have a beautiful tradition for Tết: setting up a tray of five fruits on the altar, known as “Mâm Ngũ Quả.” In Asian mythology, the world is believed to be made up of five basic elements: metal, wood, water, fire, and earth. This fruit tray is a way to symbolize these elements at home. It's not just about representation, though; it's also a symbol of hopes for abundant crops and prosperity in the year ahead.

North

Fruit offering in the North include kumquats, bananas, oranges and Buddha hands.

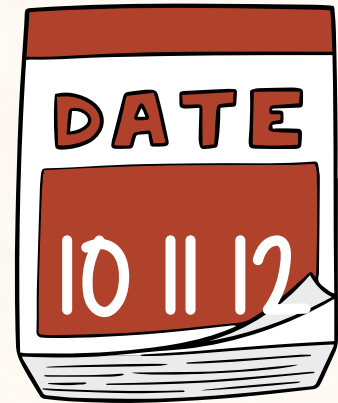

South

Fruit offering in the South include custard apples, coconuts, papayas, mango and goolar fig. In Vietnamese they are “Cầu, Dừa, Đủ, Xoài, Sung” which in the South literally is a prayer to “have enough to use” in the New Year

On the Day

The climax of Tết celebrations happen between the last day of the old year, February 9 - this year, and the first three days of the New Year, February 10 to 12.

On New Year's Eve, it's all about family dinner, making sure every member is there. The stroke of midnight, known as Giao Thừa, is super special. It's when the old year passes into the new. This is the time for personal prayers, thanking the God of Heaven and the God of Earth for their blessings.

And out on the streets? It's a festival of colors and sounds – firecrackers, drums, gongs, along with vibrant dances and parades!

On the Day

The first person to enter a home after midnight is known as the "first-footer" or người xông đất. This person's arrival is believed to influence the family's fortune for the year, and they often bring gifts for luck.

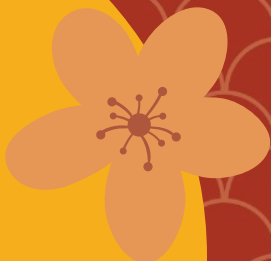

The first day of Tết is all about family time. It's a special day for the kids, as they receive red envelopes filled with money, called Lì Xì, from the older members of the family. Traditionally, kids dress up in new clothes and greet their elders with Tết wishes. After the greetings, they get the exciting Lì Xì. In the days that follow, it's time to visit other relatives and friends, continuing the celebration.

Share Your Lì Xì

The tradition of Lì Xì, or 'Lucky Money,' is a cherished part of Tết. The lucky money is given in bright red envelopes, which you can easily find in bookshops, market stalls, and of course, on Lazada. It's a practice that brings joy to everyone during the season. You'll see Lucky Money being exchanged all over the place: parents giving it to their friends' children, teachers to students, and even management teams to employees. It's a lovely way of spreading good fortune and happiness during the festive season.

The amount of Li Xi can be from VND 20,000 to 500,000. Depending on the relationship between the giver and receiver, you may offer more or less. (or USD)

For full-time staff average 200,000 to 500,000. For other staff (ie. trash collector, shared security, etc...) 100,000 to 200,000. You may also give Li Xi to their children 50,000 to 100,000

13th month salary

BONUS

During Tết, if you have household helpers, drivers, gardeners, and similar staff, it's customary to give them not just their salaries but also a Lì Xì (Lucky Money) or a bonus. This might be the standard 13th-month salary, depending on your agreement. The bonus usually depends on how long they've been with you and how satisfied you are with their work.

Generally, if someone has worked for you for over a year, the bonus starts at one month's salary and could go up to two or three months, based on what you feel is appropriate. For those who've been with you for less than a year, the bonus amount is up to you.

Before Tết kicks off, it's a good practice to hand out their salaries along with the bonus in a red envelope. You wish them a happy Tết and a great time with their families. For employers who've already paid bonuses at the end of the calendar or fiscal year, a smaller Lì Xì is still given for good luck.

Do's & Dont's

DO'S

1. DO learn the Vietnamese greetings. Join the festivities by wishing other people a Happy New Year in Vietnamese – Chúc Mừng Năm Mới

2. DO give out Lì Xi. Your children can also be part of the most exciting part of the New Year – give out red envelopes to them to bring good luck!

3. DO give back anything you borrowed and go into the new year debt free.

4. DO Fix what's broken: Fix and replace the old with new.

5. DO Buy and Wear New Clothes: Bright colors for luck and prosperity.

Do's & Dont's

DONT'S

1. DON'T Argue, Swear, and Say Negative Things: Avoid putting bad energy out.

2. DON'T Commit Cruelty: Do not hurt people or animals. It is often recommended to set animals free. Common ones are birds.

3. DON'T Sweep! Sweeping is believed to remove good fortune and flow of money out of your home

4. DON'T Wear Black and White Clothes

5. DON'T refuse anything others give or wish during Tết

6. DON'T enter in anybody's home on the first day of Tết, unless invited (Feb 10). In many households, the father (or sometimes the whole family) is the first visitor. Many people and businesses will pick an auspicious date and time to leave their homes and/or start their businesses.

7. DON'T close doors and block the wealth from entering

Favourable Colours

Red and Yellow are symbolic for Happiness, Success, Beauty & Good Fortune.

Everywhere you look these colors are seen in ornaments, lanterns, lucky envelopes, and clothing!

Gift Giving

Gift Giving

Beyond Lucky Money, it's always wise to come bearing gifts! Here's a cheat sheet of what to consider this time of year:

1 Hoa Mai & Hoa Đào Flowers

In the South, you'll see the spectacular yellow Hoa Mai popular for their vibrant color and significance. Up in the North, Hoa Đào takes the spotlight in pink - a hardy flower that thrives in dry, cold weather brightening up grey days.

Both these flowers add a special touch to the Tết celebrations, embodying hope and renewal. Blooming flowers symbolize the rebirth of spring.

2 Kumquat Tree

Like a "family tree", the Kumquat plant symbolizes the many generations of a household.

TIP: Remember, when buying plants, you should purchase them closer to the holiday as the plants should be fresh and bloom for Tết.

4 Red Items

Red symbolizes good luck, prosperity, joyfulness and contentment. Whichever gifts you plan to give, place a priority on the red and yellow (gold) and avoid dark colors.

3 Wine & Gift Baskets

Historically wine was kept in pottery gourds and was believed to contain the essence of heaven and earth, nowadays; those old gourds are replaced by modern wine bottles. The meaning and tradition of giving wine has remained unchanged.

5 Greeting Cards

Like western culture, greeting cards are also shared. Typically printed in vivid colors like red or yellow and with distinctive images such as apricot and peach blossom, sticky rice cake and zodiac sign.

Flower Power

When Tết rolls around, cities and towns in Vietnam turn into a sea of flowers – it's like a big, blooming party!

Picture this: flower exhibitions with stunning, intricate floral displays. They're not just a treat for the eyes; they're full of hope for the new year.

Just like the pine tree is a big deal for Christmas in the West, Vietnamese homes get decked with all sorts of flowers and plants for Tết.

The traditional favorites? Hoa Đào (Peach Blossom), Hoa Mai (Ochna Integerrima), Cây Quất (Kumquat Tree).

They're not just pretty; it's all about bringing that festive, prosperous vibe into every home!

Travelling during Tết? Here's what to prepare:

- 1 While businesses in expat areas and big cities will have flexible hours, more local and rural areas will be closed almost entirely. Expect to see surcharges on travel and general services, as well.
- 2 Allow PLENTY of extra travel time. Airports and mass transport will be at an all time high.
- 3 There are limited taxi services available expect longer delays for retrieving rides in apps like Grab. Or be sure to book your ride in advance.
- 4 Take out cash in advance as it is often that ATM's run out and banks are closed,
- 5 It's best to stock up on supplies to last at least 1-2 days.
